The Honorable George P. Shultz
The Secretary of State

Dear George:

I read your letter of August 16th regarding the Advisory Panel on Overseas Security with great interest. This effort is an even more compelling one now in light of the 20 September bombing of the American Embassy in Beirut.

We will, of course, cooperate fully with the Panel and its staff in this matter of mutual concern and benefit. I have notified my Director of Security, [redacted] and the Chairman of my Intelligence Community Security Committee, [redacted] of my commitment to this effort. They stand ready to assist in any way possible.

A/SY/OPS/T TECHNICAL PENETRATION THREAT LIST

The following lists were last updated in the Summer of 1984. They represent SY/T's assessment of probability of attempted technical penetration by host or third country sources against U.S. Embassies and Missions in the specified location. This list is compiled solely to indicate probability of targeting based on information currently available, and should not be relied upon as the sole determinant when analyzing risk.

The following descriptions explain the basis for assigning a Foreign Service Post into one of the respective three categories:

GROUP I - HIGH THREAT: contains a compilation of those posts found in Communist Countries and in those countries where we have previously discovered penetrations.

GROUP II - MODERATE THREAT: Posts in this category are listed because the host country is under substantial Communist influence, has the ability and a vested interest in collecting intelligence for its own use, or allows an atmosphere that is conducive to intelligence efforts by third country representatives.

GROUP III - LOW THREAT: Posts listed in this category are located in countries where the indigenous threat is low, and where the atmosphere is not conducive to foreign intelligence services mounting a successful attack.
